ASA is a good Catholic school. It is a promising school for the young minds. Highly recommended for good discipline and teaching. - Parent, Grades K and 2

Choosing All Saints as our children's school is one of the best decisions we've made. My oldest graduated last year and I have two (a seventh grader and a fourth grader) who are still there. I'm a teacher myself and a big believer in the power of elementary/middle schools when they act as an extended family. At All Saints, the teachers work together as a team to guide the students through each educational milestone. They know every student, whether they have them in class or not, and the sense of community this fosters is powerful. I also love how the emphasis on giving service to others is woven throughout each day. My kids' whole self is nurtured, not just their academic success. - Parent, Grades 7, 4, and Alumni

We have been a part of All Saints Academy for 6 years and could not have been happier with our decision to come here. Our kids have made great friends, have learned a lot, and we have found a great community ourselves. Our daughter has gone on to high school, and All Saints prepared her so well for admissions to top schools and Honors and AP classes now that she's there. Again, we couldn't be happier! - Parent, Grade 8 and Alumni

Preschool 3 here at ASA has been nothing less than extraordinary! Our child comes home from school always excited to talk about his teacher, Ms Cammarata. He has grown in his vocabulary, art skills and his confidence! We are so grateful for everyone at ASA. - Parent, PreSchool 3

At All Saints Academy, our daughters have flourished both academically and spiritually. The emphasis on the light of the Lord within the challenging curriculum coupled with a loving and caring staff guarantees a well-rounded foundation for students to have a successful future. Decisions regarding your child's education can be overwhelming, but the All Saints Academy community will ensure that your child is their primary focus.
